

King County FPATH

Forensic Projects for Assistance in Transition from Homelessness

At the King County Forensic Projects for Assistance in Transition from Homelessness (FPATH) program, we partner with you to learn what is important to you, the goals you have for your own good health, and to help you find the tools and guidance you may need to feel connected to your community. We meet you where you're at to help you find and maintain housing, develop a network of providers, return to school, improve family relationships — generally, whatever it takes to assist you in your recovery.

We know that the recovery journey can be a tough one, and we believe that no one should have to go through it alone. Our multidisciplinary team includes certified peer counselors who have lived experience in behavioral health recovery, as well as outreach workers, housing specialists and mental health professionals.

Our program is based on the Assertive Community Treatment (ACT) model. Staff will work with you to create an environment where you feel supported by providing wraparound services that are strengths-based and anchored in recovery principles. We also connect you to the proper resources that can help you achieve your goals.

What to Expect

At the King County FPATH program, we believe in a person's right to a meaningful life of their own choosing, free of stigma and discrimination. When you first meet with us, staff will partner with you to conduct an assessment of your needs. We will then work with you to develop a comprehensive care plan that prioritizes resolving any immediate concerns including housing stability, medication management, or other life goals you may have.

Our culture is based on respect and non-judgment, and we celebrate individual uniqueness. We care about the interpersonal relationships we develop so we can foster a supportive environment.

Our staff are passionate, resourceful, and motivated. They are your partners and will be throughout your journey.

Our goal is to be a place that helps you thrive. We want you to be the leader of your journey, and to create the life you want for yourself.

“The goal of recovery is not to become normal. The goal is to embrace the human vocation of becoming more deeply, more fully human.”
